

Spring 2025

Brack and Brine

beautiful books
that matter to the North

brackandbrine.com

In the Shadow of Tungusuak

Chris Buckley

978-1-7782193-6-8

published 6 December 2024, list price $24.95 / $21.95 US

non-fiction / travel memoir, 286 pages

A Foreword INDIE awardwinning true story of inland travel through the land now known as the Torngat Mountains National Park. Author Chris Buckley superimposes the memory of his first Torngats hike, a precarious, weeks-long adventure with his brother Brendan in 1980, on wisdom gained over decades of inexorable returns to the land, as well as a 2021 expedition to retrace much of the original route. A celebration of brotherhood, coming of age, and above all, the land itself.

And You Can't Help but Listen

Jamie Jackman

978-1-7782193-4-4

published 17 June 2024, list price $15

poetry, 80 pages

These words carry the music of the Silver Wolf Band. Jamie Jackman shares 60 poems and sketches adapted from present song lyrics and works in progress, providing new avenues into the ideas and images that inspire the multi-award-winning Indigenous folk-rock band from Labrador.

A Brack and Brine tea book.

Labrador, a reader's guide

Robin McGrath

978-1-7782193-1-3

published 21 December 2023, list price $22.95

non-fiction / literature, 270 pages

A journey through Labrador literature, led by one of its most passionate readers and most prolific reviewers. Celebrated author Robin McGrath's 25th book charts a course from the 18th through the 21st centuries, paying visits to authors from Nikashant Antane to Arnold Zageris and everywhere between. Along the way, in the words of Telegram reviewer Joan Sullivan, "McGrath's personal story gives this book a spine."

Labrador Cinema

Mark David Turner and Morgen Mills

978-1-7782193-0-6

published 1 October 2022, list price $40

non-fiction / film, 188 pages

An IPPY award-winning visual history of 120 years of Labrador film and television, showcasing rare and significant images interpreted by the leading experts. Labrador Cinema features a filmography of over 200 titles that no Labrador film buff should miss.

Upcoming titles

Separation Point

Michael Friis Johansen

978-1-7782193-8-2

fiction / crime, thriller

A novel of crime, secrets, and danger set in Labrador communities both familiar and fictional. Separation Point resonates with an authenticity that only a long-time resident and gifted storyteller like Michael Friis Johansen could achieve.

Cotton Gloves and Rusty Anchors

Mandy Joy Poole

978-1-997667-00-1

poetry

The collected poems of an emerging poet from NunatuKavut, accompanied by her own drawings. Poole finds inspiration in the fray and freedom of everyday moments, from driving the Trans-Labrador Highway to striving "to understand the anatomy of ink."

Nurse Fortescue and Doctor Paddon

Dave Paddon

978-1-997667-02-5

non-fiction / memoir

True stories of Sheila and Tony Paddon, two pillars of Labrador health care and public life. Dave Paddon transcribes his parents' words from interviews and archival papers, interspersing his own thoughts in the inimitable style that has won him renown across the province for his tales and recitations.

Brack and Brine is an emerging publishing house based in Happy Valley-Goose Bay. We specialize in books that bring original ideas and approaches to Northern topics. We have published print and electronic books since 2022, and our titles are available for wholesale or retail purchase or library subscription.

In 2024, we were delighted to be organizing partners in the Words of Warmth Literary Festival in Happy Valley-Goose Bay in 2024.

Come out to meet us in 2025 at Expo Labrador in Happy Valley-Goose Bay this June, or at The Word on the Street in Toronto this September.

who we are

Brack and Brine is co-owned by Morgen Mills, a writer, editor, and general woman of letters who lives in Happy Valley-Goose Bay, and Mark David Turner, a writer, speaker, academic, musician, and Newfoundlander living in Toronto.

publish with us

We publish beautiful books that matter to the North. If you have an idea or manuscript that fits, check us out via at brackandbrine.com/submissions